DEATH OF GEN. J. W. DENVER.

a Man Who Had Had a Brillia Military and Civil Career. Yesterday afternoon Gen. J. W. Denver died at his apartments at the Globe building after a very short illness. During his last moments Gen. Denver was surrounded by Mrs. Denver. his eldest son, Wm. Denver, and many of his intimate friends. The remains will be taken to the family home at Wilmington, Ohio, where the funeral services will be held. At 4:30 this afternoon the members of the National Association of Mexican Veterans will meet at 507 F street northwest and from there proceed to the undertaker's establishment to take a last look at their dead comrade.

Gen. Denver was exceedingly well known in this city. He was a main of herculean size. Born in Virginia in 1817, he removed to Ohio in 1830, where he graduated from the Cincinnati law school. In Ohio he taught school and edited a paper, but later he removed to Platte company and served with distinction at Contereras, Cherubusco, Molino del Rey, Chapulteper and Las Garitas, handling his commands with skill and judgment, notwithstanding the fact that he was suffering during the whole time from the terrible after effects of yellow fever contracted at Vera Cruz.

After the war he started west in command of one of the earliest emigrant trains that pene-trated the new country, and reached California by the till then unknown route through Wyo-ming and the region of the Snake river. He was elected state senator in California and afterward secretary of state. While in California he had a controversy with Edward Gilbert, an ex-member of Congress, which re-kulted in a duel, and in which Gilbert was killed. Riffes were the weapons, and Gilbert fell at the second shot. HIS SERVICE IN CIVIL LIFE.

He was elected to Congress and afterward was appointed by Buchanan commissioner of Indian affairs. While serving in this position and at the time before Kansas had even a term torial form of government, and the hordes of immigrants pouring into the lands from all sides stopped at nothing to gain the end of their party, whatever that might be-for slavery or against—he found himself unexpectedly appointed governor of the territory in place of Mr. Frederick Stanton, who had been summarily removed for offending President Buchanan hasome administration of the affairs of the much-vexed state.

AS GOVERNOR OF KANSAS. At this time bands of armed guerrillas traversed the country, making indiscriminate war on all they met, robbing and, if need be, mur-dering, always in the name of a cause and alwave esponsing the opposite cause to that of their victims. Denver owed a large measure of his success to his idea that the people could best manage their own affairs untrammeled by the military arm of the government, so long at least as they stopped short of insurrection, and, finding the troops scattered all over the territory, he proceeded to recall them as fast as could be done without causing uneasiness and excite ment among the people.

Although laboring against tremendous disad vantages he succeeded in bringing the affairs of the territory to a satisfactory state.

IN THE WAR OF THE REBELLION. At the breaking out of the civil war he en tered the Union service in 1861 with the rank of brigadier general from President Lincoln. He was for a time in charge of the military district of Kansas, because of his knowledge of the people and country, but was later transferred east, and joined Gen. Halleck in time to take part in the advance on Corinth. He afterward relieved Gen. Logan at LaGrange, when he assumed control and command of all the railroads in that part of Mississippi and Tennessee, having had his command increased at various times by the addition of other regiments until it numbered over 30,000 men. This was the most difficult and most important part of his military on the local republicans to fall in with this plan. It is proposed that each of the numerous organizations meet simultaneously in their respectively. The simultaneously in their executive ability that all moved without a jar or break.

After the war Gen. Denver devoted him self to the practice of law. He was prominently mentioned for the presidential nomination at the Cincinnati democratic convention of 1876, when Mr. Tilden was nominated. In 1873 Gen. Denver took an active part in organizing the Veterans of the Mexican War, of which society he has been president up to the Detective Styles of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad testified that he heard Jones say that he had given the watch to heard Jones say that he had given the watch to Wood to pawn. Jones took the stand and testified that his business was gambling; that he was at Irving Park and "Dollar Bill" got broke at a dice game and he loaned him $3 on the watch, and he went to Baltimore when the boys broke him and then he came here. He played "crap." "shot dice" and "sweat." The case was submitted without argument and the jury found a verdict of not guilty. Mr. Sellers asked that a verdict of not guilty. Mr. Sellers asked that a second charge be tried and Mr. Clagett stated that the officers desired a postponement. On inquiry by the court it was stated that the offense was at Irving Park and they could not say that the property was brought here. The court said he could not be held and discharged him.

Utilize the Ice.

Utilize the Ice.
To the Editor of The Evening Star:
When the departments close at 3 o'clock these sweltering afternoons hundreds of ice coolers throughout the various buildings in different parts of the city are left half to two-thirds or more full of ice and water, having been replenished with ice at noon. From that hour until toward midnight the ice melts away in gloomy silence. Meanwhile the sweltering crowds pass by athirst, but with nothing to abate the thirst except the various drinks paid for over the counter. How easily and with how little expense the contents of these coolers could be emptied at the close of the day into tanks at the different sides of said buildings, from which the thirsting public could quench its thirst. The public pays for this ice. Why should it not receive the full benefit of it?

The Marine Band Concerts. To the Editor of The Evening Star: I wish you would direct attention to exceedingly inconvenient flour of the Marine Band concerts. Five-forty is hot, and too near the dinner hour of most dwellers in Washington. I have lived here twelve years and have never yet been able to enjoy the Marine Band never yet been able to enjoy the Marine Band open-air concerts Wednesdays and Saturdays. But an open-air concert after sundown, say from 8 to 9, would be a popular diversion these glorious summer evenings. I have never understood why the concerts were held before sundown, but I suppose there must be some reason. Perhaps individual members of the band have other engagements later. Be that as it may, by the present method the benefits and pleasures of the concerts are lost by a large proportion of the public. G. L.

RECEPTION TO A PASTOR. Rev. Dr. Samuel M. Johnson, pastor of Allen Chapel, was last evening accorded a reception by the members of his flock. A good deal of Scripture talk was indulged in and the affairs of the church canvassed. It was agreed that these were in a No. 1 condition. The camp now being conducted in the grove adjoining is adding largely to the coffers and the congregation.

Corner Stone Day.

Seven years ago the corner stone of the Church of Our Redeemer, the only colored Lutheran church in the city, was laid with appropriate services by the Lutheran ministers of the District. Last evening the congregation and their friends met to celebrate the event. Though the night was a warm one the little church on 8th street above Boundary was favored with quite an audience. The pastor, Rev. D. E. Wiseman, made a statement of the work done by the mission during the seven years of its existence and urged its members to stand together and work earnestly for its success, as it had come to stay. Short addresses were also made by Rev. Geo. W. Moore of Lincoln Congregational Church, Rev. Paulus Moort of the Episcopal mission in Monrovia, Africa, and Rev. Enoch Stephenson of Jamaica, West Indies. The closing feature of the event was a Moravian love feast, into which the audience heartily entered.

THE AMERICAN CONSULATE HIT. In the Bombardment of Ceibs the Unit States Flag Was Ignored.

Letters from Honduras, says the New York Sun, report a big battle in the interior, some say at Botijas, others at Danli, between Gen. Mula, commanding the revolutionary forces, and Gen. Villeta, commanding those of the government, in which Mula was defeated after a fight of eleven hours and retreated toward Nicaragua. Belfate, which was occupied by the revolutionists, has surrendered to Gen. Ordothat occasion advised all the colored people to nez of the government army. The foreign resibuy shotguns, and if they were asked what they dents of Ceiba complain that no notice was were doing with them say that "De old man told me to keep a shotgun in the house just to play with?" Do you remember, Mr. Editor, on that occasion Mr. Carson said that Maj. Moore innocent persons, including one woman, were killed.

The residence and office of the American consul, B. Tocca, were riddled with rifle bullets two men being shot on the premises. The stars and stripes were floating over the consulate before and during the bombardment. The residence of the agent of the Oteri, American line, also had the American banner flying, but that, as well as the residences of the French and Spanish representatives were haddle merched by Spanish representatives, were badly wrecked by the bombardment. The town was a good deal damaged, and so were the other towns on the coast bombarded by the Pizzatti.

The Honduras affair, although settled, promises to cause some serious international complications. Threats are made by the for complications. Threats are made by the for-eign and American owners, whose property was destroyed by the bombardment of Ceiba by the American steamer Pizzatti to bring suit for damages against the owners of that vessel, the nationality of which will have to be established. The Pizzatti carries the Amer-ican register and floated the American flag, but during the bombardment of the constant during the bombardment of the coas acted as a man-of-war of Honduras, and Capt. Henry Pizzatti, although an American citizen, held a commission as a general in the army of Honduras.

Mr. Santo Oteri, owner of the Pizzatti, says that before the vessel entered into the service of the government at all Gen. Leiva had obtained the consent of the United States War Department at Washington that the Pizzatti be used as a war vessel for the legitimate govern-ment of Honduras. He thinks that circumstance ought to relieve him of responsibility in the matter of an indemnity.

President Leiva of Honduras gave the captain of the Pizzatti a written guarantee that he would accede to any demands for compensation that the captain would make for his services leaving him to fix the price. The Pizzatti will remain in the service of the Honduras government a few weeks longer and until it is certain that the revolution is ended. that the revolution is ended.

A telegram from Guatemala announces another international complication. This telegram was from Capt. Challoner of the steamship Joseph Oteri, belonging to Joseph Oteri of New Orleans, brother of the owner of the Pizzatti, announcing that the right to enter any Honduras port had been refused to his vessel. The Oteri was used in the capture of Truxillo and carries an American register. It was charged that the officers of the Oteri were friendly to the revolutionists and connived at the seizure of that vessel and its use against the government. The Oteri and connived at the seizure of that vessel and its use against the government. The Oteri left New Orleans a few days ago with a large cargo of freight. As the freight is perishable, this refusal will entail a heavy loss on the owners of the vessel. A protest was accordingly entered and an appeal made by telegraph to Gen. Foster, Secretary of State, for protection. The owners of the Oteri claim that the Honduras government cannot shut their vessels out of that country because one of them was seized by the revolutionists and need them was seized by the revolutionists against the government. Congressman Cogswell Ill. Congressman William Cogswell is seriously ill at his home at Salem, Mass., having suffered a relapse. I have used the CUTICURA REMEDIES for scalp diseases. My hair was falling badly, my foretop becoming crusty or scaly, and it itched so badly that I could not keep my hands off my head. If I combed off those scales, a sticky or gummy substance would ooze out of the skin and form another crust. After trying two or three remedies, I sent to you for your book, and after reading it, I used one box of CUTICURA, one cake of CUTICURA SOAP and took one bottle of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, which cured me. I feel grateful to you for the remedies, and have recommended them to my friends.

THE MARLBORO' PIKE. Its Purchase Authorized by Prince George's

County Commiss The board of commissioners of Prince George's county, Md., at their meeting at Upper Mariboro' yesterday by a unani vote decided to purchase for $10,000 the Upper Marlboro' and Washington turnpike. Mr. Pumphrey, treasurer of the turnpike company, was at the meeting and read a report of the affairs of the company, and after a careful consideration as to the advantages offered for additional taxation it was decided to make the The sudden opening of the well at King and be rejected, but no one present disputed his purchase. The county commissioners, by a recent act of the legislature, were empowered to purchase the turnpike from its present owners at a sum not to exceed $10,000 and to open it to the free travel of the public. This pike prior to 1868 for a distance of ten miles leading from the town limits to the District line was owned and kept in repair by the county commissioners, but was soon afterward bought by a stock company. The pike has been inspected by one of the commissioners, who reported that it was in first-class order and as good as any county road leading into Washington.

By an act of the last legislature the con-sioners were empowered to purchase the bridge spanning the Patuxent river at Hill's landing and open the same as a free route to the city of Washington, provided the amount for such pur-chase did not exceed $5,000, the commissioner chase did not exceed $5,000, the commissioners of Anne Arundel to pay two-thirds of the purchase. At a recent meeting of the Anne Arundel commissioners an order was passed to purchase the bridge for $4,000 and appropriated their share ($2,666.67) for that purpose. The Prince George's commissioners yesterday took up the question and the motion to buy was refeated by a root of these tests. ected by a vote of three to two. They are no in position to carry out another clause of the act, which enables them to build a free bridge over the river. The owners, the Woodlawn Bridge Company, say that they will take the case to court, as the purchase of the bridge is mandatory.
